Abstract
Interpersonal barriers to recovery from borderline personality disorder (BPD) are explored in a qualitative study of 10 patients with BPD. The study aims to understand the barriers to recovery from BPD and the role of interpersonal relationships in the recovery process. The study also aims to explore the impact of interpersonal relationships on the recovery process. The study finds that interpersonal relationships are a significant barrier to recovery from BPD. The study also finds that interpersonal relationships can be a source of support and recovery for patients with BPD.

Introduction
Borderline personality disorder (BPD) is a complex mental health condition characterized by unstable relationships, self-harm, and impulsive behavior. The recovery process for BPD is often challenging, and interpersonal relationships play a significant role in the recovery process.
