Children and young people make up the biggest group of people who suffer from Guttate Psoriasis. It can be the result of any kind of infection such as strep, and the signature red bumps cleared up with antibiotics. The good thing about Guttate Psoriasis is that once it's cleared up, it may never reappear. If your child has this, you may not even be told as it is often diagnosed as an allergic reaction rash.

The scalp is the target of Subacute Psoriasis and its main instigator for a severe case of dandruff. It usually affects not only the scalp, but also the neck, hairline and forehead. Another area targeted by Subacute Psoriasis is the nails where the first signs are dark circles and pitting on the nails. It's also possible that the nails will break away from some fingers.

Psoriasis has some main characteristics, do you know them?

- Erythrodermic: extreme skin redness and shedding
- Inverse: major inflammation
- Pustular: Lesions that weep, plus extreme scaling
